STATION ROAD, FOXTON, CB22

At the front of the home, a generously sized living room creates a welcoming space for everyday comfort. From the hallway, you'll find the impressive kitchen/dining area to the rear, complete with integrated appliances and a modern, contemporary finish. Glazed doors open onto a private, landscaped garden. The downstairs cloakroom completes this floor.

Upstairs, there are three well-proportioned bedrooms. The principal bedroom benefits from a modern en-suite shower room, while bedrooms two and three share a contemporary family bathroom. Bedroom two is a comfortable double, while bedroom three offers versatility as a third bedroom or a home office.

There is off roading parking for two cars with an EV charging point.

This home features high quality flooring throughout and underfloor heating to the ground floor, powered by an Air Source Heat Pump for sustainable, modern comfort.

Foxton is a small village in South Cambridgeshire, England. It has a number of well preserved fifteenth and sixteenth century houses, and a thirteenth century church dedicated to St Laurence.

The well-served village of Foxton lies between the University City of Cambridge (approximately 7 miles) and the market town of Royston (approximately 6 miles).

There are good local facilities in the village including a village convenience store/post office and a station offering mainline rail services into London's Kings Cross and Cambridge. Faster and more regular services are available from Royston station into Kings Cross taking from 37 minutes.

For road commuters, the A10 runs along the edge of the village, providing easy access to the M11 to the east and, via the A505, the A1(M) to the west.

There is a primary school in the village and notable independent schools in Cambridge for all ages, including The Perse, The Leys and St Faiths.
